

Best Way to Get Rid of Fleas

Sorting Fleas Out Completely Can Be Tricky Unless You Know How

By Clive Anderson

You can take care of the second part very easily by treating your pets with powder, drops and a collar and then making sure that their bedding is put through the hot wash in the machine.

From experience I have found that there is no one best way to get rid of fleas from either your home or your pet. It really does have to be a concentrated two pronged attack to ensure that you get them gone for good. But, it is quite simple to do, no problem.

The best way to get rid of fleas is to be very aggressive but thorough in your methods and by using a combination of tools from the flea killing tool box (of which there are a few) you can guarantee a flea free home pretty quickly.

You might feel like you have a mammoth task ahead of you in eradicating these little pests, especially if you are in the midst of a full blown infestation. It can be very intimidating just because of the sheer numbers involved alone.

But, do not panic, whilst it may take a bit of time and patience you can do it, I promise. I think from a psychological aspect that the first thing to do is get yourself a couple of flea traps for your house. The reason behind this piece of advice is not only from their effectiveness and efficiency but, from a visual aspect.

What do I mean by that? Well, if you can see the evidence of these nasty parasites being dealt with in great numbers, never to bother you again it has a fantastic calming effect; giving you peace of mind knowing that you are doing something really positively that is working so quickly.

The best way to get rid of fleas is to be very aggressive but thorough in your methods and by using a combination of tools from the flea killing tool box (of which there are a few) you can guarantee a flea free home pretty quickly.

Whilst the traps are a brilliant place to start in waging war on the hopping hordes, they cannot be 100% effective on their own, only because they cannot deal with the eggs and larva. This is a real shame because when it comes to sorting out the full grown adult they are first class.

To effectively deal with the problem you have to break the lifecycle of the flea in two places. 1. We have taken care of and that is by killing the adults. 2. The eggs and larva have to be prevented from developing any further so that they cannot complete the lifecycle and carry on causing you major headaches.

You can take care of the second part very easily by treating your pets with powder, drops and a collar and then making sure that their bedding is put through the hot wash in the machine. Also, using powders and vacuuming thoroughly around your house you can do an excellent overall job.

I think then, the best way to get rid of fleas is to fight dirty and be unrelenting in your approach to getting your home flea free and use anything and everything you can to assist and really make your job a piece of cake.

With permission of Ezine Articles